Administrative / Biographical history The Marks family figured prominently in the social, scientific and medical spheres of Brisbane society from 1879 until the death of Dr Elizabeth Nesta (Patricia) Marks in 2002. Charles Ferdinand Marks (1852-1941) emigrated to Queensland in 1879 where he had a distinguished career as a medical practitioner and politician. His step-son, Joseph Espie Dods, and sons, Edward (Ted) Oswald Marks and Alexander (Alec) Hammett Marks, were all doctors who served during the First World War. Ted Marks married Ernestine (Nesta) Drury in London in 1914. After the war he had a distinguished career as an ophthalmologist in Brisbane. His daughter, Elizabeth (Patricia) Marks (1918-2002) was an eminent entomologist, carrying out world recognised research into mosquitoes and malaria. Series 1: Ernestine 'Nesta' Marks papers (1881-1964)

Series number 1

Series title Ernestine 'Nesta' Marks papers

Date 1881-1964

Scope and content

Correspondence to and from Ernestine 'Nesta' Marks (nee Drury)

This series contains a significant quantity of correspondence - letters, cards and telegrams, sent by and received from Ernestine 'Nesta' Marks during her lifetime. Nesta as she was known, was born in Brisbane in 1881 to Edward Robert Drury (1832-1896) and Barbara Jane Grahame (1846-1907). Together with her sister Evelyn, she was educated in Brussels at a school managed by her aunt Matilda Drury and in 1914 travelled to London to marry her childhood sweetheart Edward 'Ted' Marks. The correspondence describes their lives in detail in England and Ireland during the First World War, the birth of their only child 'Patricia' Marks and their activities on return to Australia. Nesta a renowned correspondent, also kept diaries for almost every year of her adult life, they also document the events and activities of the Drury and Marks family, in great detail. Series 2: Edward 'Ted' Marks papers (1899-1963)

Series number 2

Series title Edward 'Ted' Marks papers

Date 1899-1963

Scope and content

Edward 'Ted' Oswald Marks was born in Brisbane in 1882 to Doctor Charles Ferdinand Marks and Elizabeth Dods (nee Stodart). He studied geology at Trinity College Dublin, alongside his brother Alexander Marks, who was studying medicine. He returned to Australia where he became engaged to Nesta Drury in 1913 but decided to pursue a medical career and returned to Ireland to complete his degree, he married Nesta in London in 1914. After graduating Ted Marks enlisted with the Royal Army Medical Corps in 1916, but was invalided out and continued his medical studies as an ophthalmologist, remaining in the United Kingdom until 1919 when he returned to Australia with his wife and daughter in 1920. Much of this considerable body of correspondence was written to his wife Nesta Marks and describes in detail his life in the medical corps and his experience during the Easter Rising in Dublin in 1916. The latter part of his career as an ophthalmologist is documented through his papers, most particularly his work for trachoma in children and his interests in geology, anthropology and the establishment of the Great Barrier Reef Committee.

Biographical history

Espie Dods was born in London, to Robert Smith Dods and his wife Elizabeth Gray Stodart. Robert Smith Dods died in 1876, and his widow emigrated to Australia with her three sons and in 1879 married Dr Charles Ferdinand Marks, and bore him three sons and a daughter.

Espie studied at Brisbane Grammar School in 1885, and in 1890 was sent to school in Switzerland to learn French and German. In 1892 he was studying at Edinburgh University, and graduated from Medicine in 1897, obtaining an additional qualification in Dublin in Public Health.

Espie was commissioned as a lieutenant in the Queensland Defence Force in 1898, and returned to Australia the following year. During the Second South African War (Boer War) Espie served as Regimental Medical Officer with the 1st Queensland Contingent between 1899 and 1900.

In April 1902 during an outbreak of the plague Espie was appointed Government Medical Officer for Brisbane a position he held until his death in 1930. In February 1906 Espie married Anna Ruth Walker, they had four children, Margaret Ruth Espie, William Stodart Espie, Robin Espie, and James Espie.

At the outbreak of the First World War, Espie was invited to be the Regimental Medical Officer for the 5th Light Horse Regiment where he served with distinction until returning home in 1917 and resumed his position as Government Medical Officer.

First World War photographs (1900-1917)

Unit ID 27331/3106

Date 1900-1917

Scope and content

Marks Family photographs World War 1

This collection of photographs relates principally to the service of Alexander Hammett Marks who enlisted with the First AIF in August 1914. Marks was posted as Regimental Medical Officer to the 3rd Field Artillery Brigade and was at Gallipoli from the landing until the evacuation from Anzac Cove; he was promoted major on 6 September 1915. In February 1916 Marks was appointed Deputy Assistant Director of Medical Services (DADMS) of the 4th Division. The Division moved to France in May and Marks served with it until December when he was promoted lieutenant-colonel commanding the 2nd Australian Field Ambulance. In February 1917 Marks was invalided to England and in March was appointed to form and command the 16th Australian Field Ambulance attached to the 16th Brigade in England. In October Marks returned to France to command the 1st Australian Casualty Clearing Station. He remained with the unit until September 1918 when he was appointed Colonel and A.D.M.S. of the 1st Division, when he returned to London and the war ended. Also included are a number of images of his father Lieutenant Colonel (Doctor) Charles Ferdinand Marks who was commandant of the 6th Australian General Hospital, Kangaroo Point, Brisbane, during the First World War; and an informal group of British and Australian Army officers in South Africa during the Boer War, that includes William Glasgow, Captain Joseph Espie Dods, Lieutenant Colonel Percy Ralph Ricardo, Captain Henry George Chauvel, and Captain David Elder Reid.
