Administrative / Biographical history Oral historian Suzanne Mulligan is interested in recording the life stories of the older generation. She conducted her first unofficial interview of her grandmother in 1987. She later completed a major in journalism in 2001 and an oral history workshop which helped equip her with the skills to professionally conduct oral histories. Her first professional oral history was with World War I veteran Eric Abraham in 2002. Suzanne Mulligan has since conducted a large number of oral histories 32 of which are available in this collection and is an active member of Oral History Australia.
