Series 1: Gilmour and Low family papers (1879-1952)

Series number 1

Series title Gilmour and Low family papers

Date 1879-1952

Scope and content

The Gilmour and Low families are Lady Florence Bjelke-Petersen's paternal and maternal ancestors, respectively. Much of the material in this series relates to 'Granny Low' and two of her children who went to World War One, Harold and Arthur. 'Granny Low' was Eliza Alice Low (nee Ensor) who was born in England but emigrated to Australia with her husband Edwin Low in 1886. They had 6 children, one of whom was Florence Mabel Low. Florence Mabel Low married James Pollock Gilmour and the couple had two children Florence Isabel and Margaret. Florence Isabel Gilmour married Joh Bjelke-Petersen in 1952 and when Joh received his Knighthood in 1984 she became titled Lady Bjelke-Petersen, colloquially known as 'Lady Flo'.

Series 2: Bjelke-Petersen family photographs (between 1900-1960?)

Series number 2

Series title Bjelke-Petersen family photographs

Date between 1900-1960?

Scope and content

The Bjelke-Petersen family name was born when George Petersen, an ambitious and recently prosperous young man, established himself and his wife in Bjelke Avenue on the outskirts of Copenhagen and changed their name to Bjelke-Petersen. The family had five children; Carl, Christian, Marie, Harald and Johannes. The Bjelke-Petersen family emigrated to Tasmania from Denmark when Carl Bjelke-Petersen (1870-1954), who was known to the family as George, was 21. He became a Lutheran pastor and was posted to New Zealand. He was then transferred to Queensland where he met Maren Poulsen (1881-1970), whose family had also emigrated from Denmark. He family emigrated when she was seven and had settled with other Scandinavian emigrants in the South Burnett region of Queensland. George (Carl) was again posted to New Zealand where Maren joined him and they married. Their first two children, Christian and Johannes, were born in Dannevirke in the North Island of New Zealand but the family moved back to Australia when Johannes (Joh) was two years old and established the property 'Bethany' near Kingaroy. Agneta (Neta) was born soon after.
