Being Pittsworth's recordist of history, he photographed everything from weddings and portraits to community and social events, commercial work and local buildings. It is understood that he rented darkroom facilities from an amateur photographer named Lindenberg, whose family has been prominent in the Pittsworth business community for more than a century. Descendant Clive Lindenberg of Pittsworth, is a custodian of some important Pardey plates, many of which he has permitted to be digitised, with copies provided to State Library of Queensland.
