Series 1: Station diaries (1884-1978)

Series number 1

Series title Station diaries

Date 1884-1978

Scope and content

James T M Bell (1839-1903) purchased Camboon Station in partnership with Colville Hyde, in 1874. Located on the banks of the Dawson River, by 1888 the consolidated lease covered over 525 square miles. In 1882 Bell and Hyde purchased the 22,000 acre freehold Coochin Coochin Station, as a fattening paddock for Camboon; from 1882-1887 William Price managed the property, followed by Frederick Rowbotham until 1902. After the death of his father and in the wake of the 1902 drought, Francis Marsh Bell (1883-1961) took over management of the station assisted by Murray Jardine and Walter Winthrop until 1921. At its height Camboon ran 20,000 head of cattle, at first Shorthorn then Herefords which were more suited to the climate. Camboon was also known for its Clydesdale draught horses. Four generations of the Walsh family worked for the Bell family. William Walsh who started in 1879 lived and worked on Camboon for sixty-four years. The main drovers were Jack Johnson and James Ryan, and the station employed many people of Asian and Aboriginal heritage as station hands. This series consists of 61 diaries, the earliest dated 1884, followed by 1904-1914, then 1926-1927, 1930, 1935-1978. The diaries record daily activities on the property, rainfall received, mustering, stock sales, visitors and social activities.

Ledgers for Camboon Station and Camboon Pastoral Company which record stock purchases: the number of cattle, horses; Clydesdale pedigrees and sales, brandings, muster counts and other related expenses for the years 1892 through to 1948. To date still the largest privately owned cattle property in the Banana Shire, Camboon Station covers over 34,500 hectares. In the 1890s their herd was reportedly the best in the country, and they were the first in the region to change over from Shorthorns to Herefords, breeding bulls suitable not only for their own use, but to meet the demand in the area. Camboon was also noted for its horses, particularly its Clydesdale draughts, which at the time were the farmers work-horse, used for hauling and draughting, and now known as the 'horse that built the nation'.
